CONFESSES SLAYING MAN FOR LOVE OF VICTIM'S WIFE

REFUSAL OF WOMAN TO ELOPE RESULTS IN HUSBAND'S DEATH

Creeps Past Sleeping Child- ren To Commit His Crime

Rochester, N. Y., April 7.—Breaking down after a long grilling Joseph Fria, 31, of Pittston, Pa., early today confessed killing James Lemardy, Sunday morning in his bed for the love of Lemardy's attractive wife, Margaret. Fria's confession came after Mrs. Lemardy, at first suspected of complicity in the slaying with another alleged lover, Joseph Provenzano, 22, told police of Fria's threats to kill her husband unless she eloped with him.

She declared Fria was the man who opened a window in her Hollister Street home, crept past three sleeping children and fired five shots into Lemardy's body as he slept beside her in bed. He threatened to kill her if she told, she declared.

It was in Pittston that he first met Mrs. Lemardy, four years ago, Fria told police. The young wife then 26 years old, returning his love according to his story.

Lemardy was forced to leave Pittston and moved to Utica, N. Y., coming to Rochester a short time later. Fria followed them here a year ago, failed to persuade Mrs. Lemardy to leave her husband and returned to Pittston, according to his confession.

Fria again returned here and last Saturday made a final attempt to persuade the young wife to leave with him. Provenzano, youthful lover of Mrs. Lemardy, overheard the conversation, he said, and Fria's threats to kill the husband.

About one o'clock Sunday morning, after Lemardy and his wife had gone to bed, the slayer removed a window sash of the home, stealthily crept to the bedside and emptied his revolver into the husband, throwing the weapon in a door yard, in his flight.

Mrs. Lemardy, in an effort to shield her lover, at first declared she did not hear the shots fired and was only awakened by fire in the bedding caused by the flash of the gun.

Akron Girl May Die After Attack—Found Where Thrown From Auto

Akron, April 7.—Miss Harriett Marks, 25, living on R. F. D. No. 1, East Akron, was beaten, robbed and thrown from an automobile last night by two strangers from whom she accepted an invitation to ride.

She is in city hospital and may die. She was found lying in a ditch by a motorist about 2 o'clock this morning, in a partially nude state.

According to her incoherent story, she was walking home from work on the Springfield-Mogadore road when she was accosted by the two motorists. She stepped into the machine which drove rapidly away. She remembers that one of the men grabbed her purse, and when she struggled, the other hit her on the head with a bottle. She cannot recall what took place afterwards and does not know when she was thrown from the car.

Police have few clues, as the girl is unable to describe her assailants or the auto save that it was a coupe.

FLAMES CAUSE SERIOUS LOSS

Stuebenville, O., April 7.—Flames breaking out mysteriously in the Stanton Motor Company's huge garage here early today completely destroyed the structure and eighty-five automobiles, entailing a loss of $200,000. Incendiarism is suspected.

It was from this garage that Gerald Chapman stole the Lincoln car which played a prominent part in his trial for murder at Hartford last week.

Owners of the garage testified against Chapman.

Authorities are attempting to link up the fire with Chapman's conviction and are inclined to blame an accomplice of the convicted bandit and murderer.

The fire damaged many surrounding dwellings and made a spectacular night blaze.

There he will inflate the special airship that he will carry and with three companions hopes to make the flight to the pole in 12 hours. His plan at the pole is to descend from the airship by rope ladders and after making observations to continue his flight to Nome, Alaska.

Amundsen's expedition is enroute to Spitzbergen hoping to take off in two airplanes before the end of May. Algarsson has speeded up his preparations hoping to reach the pole before Amundsen.

Barnett, Columbus and Washington attorney, were arraigned in federal court before Federal Judge Paul Jones this morning on indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with the Hayner distillery, "liquor leakage" case, and plead not guilty.

They were placed under $5,000 bond each. Counsel for Barnett, Copeland and Russell, argued for a $2,500 bond. Judge Jones, however, cited his reason for the $5,000 bond as being that others indicted previously in the same case were placed under bond of that amount.

Bailey Manning, on trial charged with the murder of Dr. E. J. McDaniel, prominent dentist of this community, made a break for liberty, almost at the end of the case which has held the stage for two weeks.

Ellis Amos, juror number 12, complained of illness at 3 o'clock in the morning. He asked permission to walk in the open air. This was granted and accompanied by a guard, the latter in bare feet, the juror left the eleven remaining members sleeping. Once outside, Amos dashed to the winds.

Deputy Kelly was outdistanced on the rough ground and Amos escaped. One hundred names were before the court today from which it is hoped to draw another juror. The case must begin all over again.

The court started an official investigation into the affair.

AIRPLANE CARRIER SARATOGA NEWEST ADDITION TO CRAFT

Vessel Converted From Battle Cruiser Finest
Ever Built

Camden, N. J., April 7.—A new queen of the seas took the water today when the United States airplane carrier Saratoga slid down the ways of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, giving the United States the largest and fastest craft of the kind in the world.

Amid a din of whistles and in the presence of many high Government officials, Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, pulled a silken string, releasing a flock of pigeons and officially christening the new naval giant, "Saratoga."

The new vessel is expected to be completed and commissioned toward the end of 1926, and when she takes her place with the fleet, she will carry an equipment of seventy-two combat, observation and bombing planes. Half of these planes will be of heavy duty type. They will be operated from the flying deck of the ship, which will afford them ample space in which to take the air and upon which to alight at the completion of flights.

As designed, the Saratoga is 888 feet over all, with a maximum beam of 105 feet, and she has a flying deck reaching from stem to stern. Her displacement is 35,000 tons, and she is equipped with engines of 180,000 horsepower, which will give her a speed of between thirty-three and thirty-four knots. Her main battery will consist of eight 8-inch guns, in four turrets, the limit of size for ships of her type, under the Washington Treaty.

The Saratoga was authorized by Congress in 1916, under the three-year building program. Originally the vessel was one of the six battle cruisers included in that program. The contract was let just before the entrance of the United States into the World War, and work was delayed in order to facilitate the building of a smaller type of vessels. After the war the vessel, as a battle cruiser, was redesigned to give it the benefit of the experience of the war, and the keel was not laid until September 25, 1920.

At the time of the Limitation of Arms Conference the vessel was about one-third completed, and while four of the six battle cruisers were ordered scrapped by the terms of the Washington Treaty the Saratoga and her sister ship, the Lexington, were retained and permission was granted to the United States to convert them into airplane carriers. The Lexington will be launched this Fall at Quincy, Mass.

COOLIDGE'S SANCTIONS MOVEMENT TO EMPHASIZE HEALTH PROBLEMS AND THEIR SOLUTIONS

Washington, April 7.—Sanctioned by President Coolidge and directed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, one of the greatest health demonstrations in American history will take place May 1.

May Day will be set aside by the president in behalf of the health of the 34,000,000 normal children of the United States, Secretary Hoover, speaking as president of the American Child Health association, announced today.

"President Coolidge is calling upon the nation to bring public attention to a national scale to its child health problems and the methods of their solution," Hoover said.

The objectives are these: That there shall be no child in America that has not been born under the proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings; that ever suffers from under nutrition; that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection; that does not receive instruction in elements of hygiene and good health.

One million children of this country were born deficient and thirty five per cent of the normal born were deficient when they became of age, according to a survey just completed by the child health association.

While we have every sympathy for the deficient children, if the nation is to march forward, it will do so not on the feet of its deficient children, but of the normal.

America's annual doctor bill is approximately $1,400,000,000, according to Hoover. For health work only $60,000,000 is spent each year through federal, state and municipal agencies.

In other words 25 times as much is spent for cures as for prevention.

A greater sum is spent annually for chewing gum than for safeguarding the health of children.

Backed by an annual budget of $550,000, the child health association has conducted a survey in eighty six cities between twenty thousand and seventy thousand population. The results demonstrate why we had such a deficiency in health standards of the men when they were called to national service for the world war, according to Hoover.

Forty one cities had no provision for hospital care of tuberculosis.

Twenty nine percent of the children had not been vaccinated. Forty cities had done nothing to establish control of diphtheria. Forty two cities have no test or pre-natal clinics for the mother. Many cities had no health instruction.

FLEET GATHERS FOR START OF CRUISE

San Francisco, April 7.—The greatest fleet that ever sailed the Pacific Ocean lay at anchor in San Francisco harbor today.

One hundred and thirty ships, making up the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets, poured through historic Golden Gate yesterday, carrying 40,000 men who today engaged in a gigantic naval parade as the first ceremony of their ten day visit here prior to their departure for a six months cruise in Hawaiian and Australian waters.

The fleet assembled here is the strongest ever gathered under an American flag, according to Admiral Robert E. Coontz, who is in command of the ships and submarines which in line at the usual interval, would stretch out for a distance of more than twenty-five miles.

Speaking of the trip to far Pacific waters, the admiral declared the cruise should prove highly beneficial to the personnel of the navy.

Eleven battleships, twenty six destroyers, five light cruisers, one armored cruiser, two mine layers and ten auxiliary ships, will make the Australian cruise, Admiral Coontz announced.

Spring Makes Divorce Nil

Cleveland, O., April 7.—A couple appeared in court before Judge Samuel H. Silbert, the husband asking a divorce decree. That was on Saturday. Monday both were back in court. "We'd like to have the decree set aside," the husband explained. The wife joined him in the request. "I gave you a divorce Saturday," Judge Silbert said. "Both of you were satisfied."

"We've changed our minds," they chimed in answer. "We were too hasty."

"It's spring," Judge Silbert ruled. "Your request is granted," and he entered an order, setting aside the decree.

PLAN HEALTH DEMONSTRATION

W. W. CULP RECEIVED WITH OPEN ARMS BY WIFE ON RETURN FROM THIRD ELOPEMENT; NOT TO BE PROSECUTED

Amorous Father of Ten and Sister-In-Law Penitent on Return From Romantic Digression—Wife Withdraws Complaint

W. W. Culp, unfrocked minister, is back at his home in South Bend, Ind., after his third adventure into romantic pathways with a younger and more attractive paramour than the wife who has mothered his ten children.

With protestations of good behavior on his lips, the penitent Lothario has returned to his wife and children in South Bend, while the companion of his latest amorous excursion, Mrs. Dorothy Culp, 22, of Nappanee, Ind., wife of his brother Clio, has returned to the husband and two children she deserted.

Both erring wanderers were received with open arms and forgiveness by the deserted. Culp was set at work paring potatoes for the evening meal while his wife sought authorities to withdraw charges and insure him immunity from prosecution. In his leisure moments he worked crossword puzzles and let his wife talk to reporters.

"There is nothing more to it," he said. "We have fixed everything up and I am home to stay. There will be no prosecution; wife has refused to sign any warrants. Of course, I was really not gone long enough to make a case of non-support. I prefer to have nothing more said. If a wife forgives, the public ought to."

Culp took this third elopement in less than three years calmly. His first adventure was staged while he was pastor of the M. E. Church at Spring Valley when he left with his eighteen-year-old choir singer, who lived in the Culp home, and went to Chicago in a mortgaged automobile. From there they went to Fort Huron, Mich., where they were recognized and arrested.

Returned here, Culp was sentenced to the Dayton Work House but escaped serving time when he won habeas corpus proceeding based on a technical error in the printed commitment papers. A few weeks ago his brother Clio and his wife visited the Culps at South Bend and three weeks later Culp and his sister-in-law disappeared.

Two weeks later they returned penitent. They were home a week when they again left, this time taking their clothes with them. They admitted spending the first interlude together in Chicago and there they went on the second elopement.

Culp's first digression from the path of marital righteousness in 1922 was the occasion of wide newspaper comment. Caught at Pashmoo Park, Port Huron, the erring minister gave out many interviews bearing upon his peculiar philosophy of love. In these he indicated his wife as an ignorant and erring spouse, who offered him no companionship.

Back here in court however, he loudly protested his promises of future good behavior. "No man should be eternally damned because he seeks love when he has not possessed it. Life is but a trip through a great wilderness and somewhere in the wilderness is a rose for every man. That is the rose of love; its possession means happiness and success. If a man pluck a thistle by mistake, should he be prevented from plucking a rose should he later chance upon it?" he said.

At the conclusion of his statement to the court on the occasion of his hearing here, Culp said, "Will this world forgive and let me try again or must I be cuffed some more? I am at your mercy for justice."

"The act, also, bars persons under 18 years of age from attending such places of amusement unless accompanied by their parent or legal guardians."

The measure is aimed at regulation of dance halls and like places of amusement outside of municipalities. Violation of the law is made punishable by fines of $15 to $100 imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or both.

Projects for repair or construction of highways to cost not more than $5,000 a mile may be carried out without the formality of competitive bidding, by the state highway department, under terms of the Edgington bill which was approved by the governor. Under existing law all improvement jobs to cost more than $1,000 a mile, were required to be let after competitive bidding.

Stiff penalties provide for persons convicted of embezzlement were extended to cover receivers convicted of that crime, under terms of a bill by Representative Hadden. Cuyahoga, which also was approved by the governor.

Other bills signed were: By Representative Fitch, Adams County, carrying an appropriation of $20,000 for the state's share of construction of an improved road from Locust Grove, Adams County to Serpent Round Park, a distance of four miles.

STATE IS DEFENDING ELLINGSON GIRL IN SANITY PROBE CASE

Girl Herself Pulls For State In Queer Situation Fate
Has Brought About

San Francisco, April 7.—The state expected to close its defense of Dorothy Elingsson, 17 year old matricide this evening. In its efforts to prove the young defendant sane, the state today assumed the role of her champion before the jury of ten men and two women who will decide her fate.

Contrasting the picture drawn by the defense, a girl emotionally dead, shy of comprehension and ability to profit by experience and thoroughly insane the state presented another side of the personality of the "jazz baby."

Through Policewoman Kathryn Sullivan, who was her constant companion for two weeks, and who declared she was the best friend the girl had in the world, outside her father and brother, the state pictured Dorothy as a girl to whom "truth stood above all things," as a tender hearted girl who shared her candy and fruit with an unfortunate fall mate suffering from a broken shoulder a connoisseur of literature and a person thoroughly sane and regretful of her crime.

By the same twist of fate, Dorothy sat in her "sideline" seat at the counsel table, pulling for the success of the state.

Smiles of encouragement were given Mrs. Sullivan by Dorothy as she testified and tears came to her eyes when Mrs. Sullivan on cross examination took the opportunity to enter a spirited defense of the girl in what she termed a "mis-statement of facts regarding the girl's love affairs by defense attorneys."

"I guess it's because my fighting spirit is up," Dorothy said today, in explaining that she has been able to sit through three days of her insane trial without collapse.

The meetings will continue until Sunday evening April 12. The following persons from other neighborhoods have been present: Joe Haverstick and family, of Ohmar Park. Rev. Rev. Ulyery, speaker for the occasion gave a very interesting and helpful address.

Prizes were drawn by Florence Robertson, Louise Hanes, and Mrs. Alexander, in the fabric contest.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to a large number of members and visitors.

Rev. Ulyery visited the school at this place Monday morning during the Bible lesson and later spoke in the highest terms of commendation of the excellent way in which Mrs. Lena Behrend of Dayton, the week-day teacher, presented the lesson of the Passion Week to her pupils at that time, complimenting the efficiency of her Bible training as evidenced by the correctness of the answers of the children and their understanding of difficult ideas. He said in substance that our ministers would have to take off their hats to Mrs. Behrend's teaching, and that those boys and girls answered questions which they understood and which would puzzle many of our deacons.

By a rising vote those present at the Community Club went on record in favor of continuing the Bible study in the school here under the teacher in Dayton, as at present. The cost next term would be considerably less than for the present year, owing to the fact that the schools already have reserves to hold practice session. The re-organized Xenia Reserves baseball team will hold another practice session at Washington Park Wednesday evening about 5:30 o'clock.

Players are especially asked to appear for the Wednesday workout as each practice will prove invaluable in later games.

Candidates for this year's nine are

Bibles and song books, which were included in the cost of the present term. The Alpha, Benham and Zimmerman schools were the trio in Beaver Creek Township, that have taken up the week-day Bible teaching under the auspices of the Dayton Council of Churches, which directs the training of teachers for this work. The training in Bible teaching is in charge of Miss Carrien of Dayton, each teacher attending classes each week for the lessons she teaches to the school children.

"BOOST THE ANNUAL" The business men of this community have responded generously to solicitations for advertising in the Bath High School Annual, which will be published this year. Pupils hope to make this high school annual the best in Greene County. A very fine cover for the Annual will be worked out in blue and gold design. Blue and gold are the school colors. On one hundred or more pages of the Annual will be found a panoramic view of things of interest which have taken place in the high school during this school year, together with a thorough explanation of the pictures and cuts. All this will be printed on heavy, enameled paper.

C. B. Ulyery, state high school inspector of Columbus, Ohio, was so kind to say that Osborn had one of the very finest school buildings in Ohio, and we think we have one of the best schools.

JOHN BRYAN'S WIDOW WINS EFFORT TO GET ENTIRE RESIDUE OF ESTATE IN DECISION

Mrs. Fredericka Steube, 39, wife of John W. Steube, Cincinnati, and widow of John Bryan, "The Poet of Yellow Springs," eccentric millionaire, is awarded more than $500,000 from the Bryan estate under the construction of the will determined in a decision handed down by the United States Court of Appeals in Cincinnati Monday.

The decision affirms the judgment rendered by Common Pleas Judge Thomas H. Darby last December and gives to Mrs. Steube all of the estate held in trust for her at once, as well as a residue amounting to more than $400,000 which Bryan devised to go to a trust fund to be devoted to "bettering the condition of mankind."

Under the will, Bryan left his widow $100,000 in trust to be paid her at the age of 40, when she was to receive the entire amount. He then, in addition to other bequests, including the giving of his 500-acre Riverside Farm at Yellow Springs to the state specified that the residue was to be used to finance the printing of tracts containing his peculiar religious beliefs and "bettering mankind," with the trust officer of the Union Savings Bank and Trust Company as trustee.

Four years after the will was filed the trust company as executor, filed suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court for construction of the will having claimed the entire estate as residuary legatee. Judge Darby held in favor of the widow, declaring the disposition of "whatsoever moneys I shall have was too vague and uncertain to amount to a gift or trust. The Court of Appeals in upholding the decision, declared the testator had no actual purpose in mind for "bettering mankind."

The identifying of beneficiaries of such a trust fund was even more vague the court held. "Did he mean the people of Greene or Hamilton Counties, the state of Ohio, the United States, North America, the Western Hemisphere or the World? Who can tell?" the court says. It then declares the trust must fail for no other reason. "The will is vague, inconsistent and indefinite, and the money or property not disposed of by specific bequest must be held to be part of his estate as to which he died intestate. Fredericka Bryan Steube is his only heir at law, and as such, it is all her property," the court ruled. The decision also gives her the trust fund created for her in a lump sum at once.

In this connection it develops that the widow received $100,000 as a marriage settlement on her agreement to wed Bryan, according to L. F. Clevenger, who was closely associated with the bard for some time. Mr. Clevenger was a witness to the marriage contract of Bryan and his wife, there being no ceremony, either civil or religious.

According to Mr. Clevenger Bryan searched the laws of a number of states before finding one permitting the marriage by contract, and they then entered into the contract there. Mr. Clevenger later witnessed the contract on their return when he served them a sumptuous wedding dinner at Riverside.

The bequest of the farm itself is also hanging fire, due to the efforts of two governors to prevent the state accepting it because of a clause which prevents religious worship on the property. Although the last legislature passed its acceptance over Donahay's veto, the case is now in the hands of the attorney general for investigation.

TESTIMONY STARTS IN $50,000 TRIAL; TWO WOMEN ON JURY

Testimony in the trial of the $50,000 suit for damages of Mildred Dickerson, former stenographer at Wilbur Wright Field against The Village of Osborn and the Miami Conservancy District, which began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, is being heard before a jury of ten men and two women.

The jury was picked after some delay and but three witnesses had testified when a recess was called at noon. About twenty-five witnesses for the plaintiff and defense have been called, with the number evenly distributed between both sides. In her suit for damages the plaintiff alleged that she has been made an invalid from injuries sustained when she accidentally stepped into a hole in the sidewalk in Osborn and fell against a protruding lead pipe.

Attracted by a window display in the H. R. Kendig store, the plaintiff claimed she failed to notice the wide hole in the walk because of darkness. Attorneys W. L. Miller, J. A. Finney, and Fred B. Johnson, of Indianapolis, represent the plaintiff while Morris D. Rice, is attorney for Osborn and Brown and Frank for the conservancy district.

The jury picked from a venire of thirty serving for the January term of the petit jury follows: Lester Bowers, L. M. Linton, Clyde Clark, S. Gerhardt, Charles H. Wright, Nellie Ankney, Chester Preston, Samuel Singer, L. D. Chitty, Guy Coy, Winifred Sugden and Joseph Bolinger.

XENIA CONTRACTORS AWARDED CONTRACT FOR PYTHIAN HOME

McCurran Brothers, Xenia contractors, were awarded the contract for improvements and additions to the dwelling on the farm owned by the Grand Lodge of Ohio, Colored Knights of Pythias, on the Jamestown Pike, which will be converted into a home for aged and infirm members of that order and its auxiliary organization, the Court of Calanthe.

The announcement of the awarding of the contract was made Monday. A number of bids were entered by contractors for the work but all were too high; the amounts being more than the amount the lodge had planned to spend on the home. The plans were revised and two bids entered left, one being the McCurran Brothers bid, which finally won the contract.

About 30,000 will be spent by the lodge on the improvements of the building on the farm, which was purchased by order and in firm members of that order and its auxiliary organization, the Court of Calanthe. A number of bids were entered by contractors for the work but all were too high; the amounts being more than the amount the lodge had planned to spend on the home. The plans were revised and two bids entered left, one being the McCurran Brothers bid, which finally won the contract.

The farm is situated only a short distance from Xenia and consists of about sixty-five acres of land, which will be cultivated to aid in the support of the institution.

URBANA SCHOOLS IN ASSOCIATION

After being suspended for nearly three years, the Urbana public schools were reinstated to membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary High Schools at the annual meeting of the association held at Chicago recently.

The Urbana schools were dropped from the association because heating and ventilating systems in the schools and the teacher-pupil ratio were not up to the standard required by the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mouk and daughter of Osborn, were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mason, of Urbana.

RAILROAD GARDENER WILL PLAN SHAWNEE PARK IMPROVEMENTS

W. F. Hutchison, of Philadelphia, landscape gardener of southwestern region of the Pennsylvania Railroad is expected to arrive in Xenia within ten days to lay out plans for the proposed landscape gardening in the new park of the Xenia Recreation Association in the Dadds Addition. Mr. Hutchison, together with C. A. Kennedy, railroad gardener here, will make a tour of the ten acre tract of land.

Mr. Hutchison recently made an offer to the association to assist in the gardening plans, and together with Mr. Matthews, of Cincinnati, supervisor of the Cincinnati division of the Pennsylvania system, was conducted over the grounds.

Both men were enthusiastic over the possibilities of the site for park purposes. Work of developing the site is going forward as rapidly as possible and it is planned to stake off the irregular contour of the lagoon some time next week preparatory to excavating and draining the swamp land.

Blueprints have been made of the acreage and the tract platted out in preparation for the coming of the landscape men who will look over the site and make "mental observations" on ideal spots for placing shrubbery.

WILL USE MOVIES TO EDUCATE SAFETY

The "Educational and Safety Week" sponsored by officials of the Greene County Auto Club began Monday.

With school vacations at hand, the traffic and pedestrian situation becomes acute and measures are taken each year to protect the pedestrian and motorist.

To combat the situation, officials of the club have found it necessary to educate both the children and older people in safety, and seven reels of motion pictures have been obtained which will be shown at various theaters over the county.

With the advent of warmer weather and a mutual love for the outdoors, motorists and pedestrians are more frequently seen, while traffic on the streets and highways augmented by the dare-devil "flivvers" becomes greater with pedestrians looked upon as fair game.

The pictures obtained depict the various and frequent causes of accidents as well as preventive measures and so warn the public to be always on guard against accidents.

CHARACTER SUBJECT OF ROTARY ADDRESS

Refuting the statement that each individual is the architect of his own fate and fortune, C. W. Cookson, superintendent of the Urbana City Schools, declared that every individual was made subject to his inheritance of physical, mental and moral forces, brought down from ancestors in his address on "Building of Character" before the Xenia Rotary Club, Tuesday noon at the Elks' Lodge.

There are two strong influences in each individual, Superintendent Cookson said, one of heredity and the other that of environment. Both of these forces sway the person, and their balance of power differs with the individual. He brought out many instances of the force of each influence in his talk.

The address was the only feature of the after-luncheon program.

FORMER XENIAN DIES IN DAYTON

Captain J. E. Gimpering, former Xenian, quartermaster of the depot at the National Military Home, Dayton, died at his home in Dayton, Monday at midnight, according to word received by his cousins, the Misses Eleanor and Sarah Williams, East Church Street.

Captain Gimpering had been ill a week, but the cause of his death was not learned. He was born and reared in Xenia, his mother being before marriage, Miss Eleahor Martin, daughter of the late Dr. Samuel Martin.

He is survived by his widow and two sons. The body will probably be brought to Xenia for burial.

A brother, Major Thomas N. Gimpering of Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Winters McGregor, of Dayton, also survive.

PLUMBERS TO MEET

Plumbers from Xenia, Dayton and surrounding cities will attend the dinner of The Dayton Master Plumber's Association to be given at the Duro Pump and Manufacturing Company's plant in Dayton next Monday night.

J. A. North, this city, has announced his intention of attending the meeting. John J. Vogel, Cincinnati, president of the National Plumbers' Association will deliver the principal speech.

QUATRIN AND MASTER CHARLIE FAVORED IN BETTING ODDS IN WINTER DERBY BOOKS

New York, April 7—Quatrain, winner of the New Orleans derby and Master Charlie, two year old champion of 1924, have been rated pronounced favorites in the winter books, those pay-off mediums through which a hopeful dollar is cast upon the rather hopeless chance that the horse of your choice will win the Kentucky derby.

Sometimes the horse even goes to the post.

Several years ago, Zev, rated as high as fifty to one in the early futures, was unconventional enough to win the race and a lot of the boys are still looking for their money.

But you can't keep a good man or a bad spring down and today plenty of important money is going on the books on Quatrain at eight to one and Master Charlie at ten to one, those guileless bookies having learned through the Zev incident that big odds today may mean small change tomorrow.

For some reason, the odds quoted represent a lengthening of the figures for Quatrain. He is the same horse that ran so well on southern tracks, yet the layers have raised the price from around "sixes" at the same time, Master Charlie's odds have been shortened in a rather sensational manner. He was high as 25 to 1 at the first call-over, because he was held that he had developed a splint in one of his legs. Within the last fortnight heavy commissions have been sent in from his stable indicating that the rumors will be rumors.

Another in popular demand during the recent days, is Stimulus of the Marshall Field stable. He has been hammered down to 12 to 1 since last week and stands third among the future choices while fourth position is being held by Our General, which is training at Aiken. This is pretty far off the beaten-track of racing observation yet he is being held as low as 15 to 1.

Candidates from two of the leading stables, to wit: those of E. R. Bradley and Harry Payne Whitney, are not getting much early action. Bradley saddled the horses that ran two in the derby some five years ago and has been in the money pretty much through recent years. But he doesn't seem to have an outstanding candidate at the moment. Hedgefence and Chantey of the Whitney string, are held respectively at 20 to 1 and 40 to 1.

Other quotations include: Young Martin 20 to 1; Supter 25 to 1; Lee O. Cotner, American Flag, Singlefoot and Sunny Man, 20 to 1; Mother Goose and Swinging 20 to 1; Swope, Silver Fox, Elv and Coronation 40 to 1 and Chief Uncas 80 to 1.

REVENUE NOT THE INTENT

RECENTLY it was said to me that prohibition was an outrage because of its expense to the country. I have obtained a definite statement from B. F. McDonald, state prohibition commissioner, and would like to pass it on. For the years of 1923 and '24 prohibition enforcement cost Ohio about $197,000, or over $98,000 each year. In the same period there has gone into the state treasury from fines $2,967,558, or nearly a million and a half dollars a year; the receipts therefore being about fifteen times as great as the costs. This is only one half of the amounts collected, the other half going to the municipalities.

"Yes, prohibition is expensive—to the person who drinks. This is one tax that does not fall like the rain, on the just and on the unjust. The bootlegger doesn't really pay the fines; he takes it out of the customer. It's a big tax to pay, for the chance of being poisoned, don't you think?"

This is the letter received a few days ago from one of our readers. It contains some most illuminating facts. Nevertheless at the time the eighteenth amendment was passed the proposition of passing such a law was not based upon the possible revenue which might be derived from its attempted enforcement. In other words it was not advocated as a revenue producing piece of legislation. Its object was to stop the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The very purpose and intent of the law would be defeated if we simply consider it from the standpoint of "net profit."

Another thing is the fact that the cost to the state of Ohio of its attempted enforcement is not the only cost to be considered. There is the cost to the government for federal enforcement agents, the cost to each and every city, town and village for police dry squads, the cost of prosecution in county, municipal and federal courts as well as the greater cost attendant upon the maintenance of workhouse and penal and insane institutions. Then there is another big item in connection with dry enforcement which is probably more costly to the bootlegger and the customer than are the fines, and that is the enormous graft which is being derived from the alleged liquor traffic by police officers, constables and so-called "dry enforcement" officers in almost every city and county in the state—a revenue which does not reach the coffers of either state or municipality.

Most apropos is the criticism made by Federal Judge John Killits, of the northern Ohio district, in congratulating a jury upon the fact that it had found a former Lindale, Ohio marshal and his aide guilty of extortion and impersonating federal officers. He said—"Ohio, one of the greatest states in the union, is the only state which has permitted commercialization of liquor law enforcement to such an extent that men, like these two defendants can go into homes and places of business and practice extortion. It is a disgrace to our state that members of the legislature have taken no action at this sitting to remedy existing conditions." And Judge Killits is recognized as one of the strongest judges on the Federal bench against the liquor traffic.

Only recently several of the most prominent dry enforcement officers of the state were indicted for illegal liquor withdrawals and even more recently there have been wholesale indictments of lesser lights in Hamilton county. Hardly a big county in the state has been clean from similar alleged irregularities.

We don't want revenue from the prohibition law. What we want is honest and conscientious respect for law and honest, conscientious enforcement against those who require force.

FRACTIONAL STAMPS

SOMETHING new in stamps is soon to be issued by the Postoffice department. Half-cent and one-and-a-half-cent denominations have been made necessary because of the new rates on third-class mail. It will be impossible to purchase less than two at a time because there are no coins of corresponding denominations. Or, perhaps, the purchaser may toss out a cent or two cents and tell the government to "keep the change." It might have been more convenient had the rates been put up a whole cent if it was necessary to increase the rates at all. It is safe to say that most people would complain less of this than of the fractional stamps.

THE DEATH OF THEODORE WRIGHT

I sing of the death of Theodore Wright, who had lived his three-score ten,
'Tis a happy song that I pass along, with a hope for all fishermen;
For Theodore Wright found life's delight in a boat on the open sea.
And his summons came as he played the game out there where he loved to be.

This gentle soul when the waves would roll thanked God for the ocean blue,
For the summer sky and the gulls that fly for he loved them though and through;
And his days were spent with a calm content where the salt breeze poured his wine.

So we thought it fair he should die out there with a sea fish on his line.

In the thick of the fight his summons came, out there where he longed to be;

"I'll give you slack, Mr. Amberjack, but you're coming home with me! You may shake your head, but you're mine!" he said, "and you'll soon be in the boat!"
Then he heard the call, and they saw him fall with the death sound in his throat,
They brought him in from the summer sea, with a sweet calm on his face.

A glad old man, who had joined his clan in a much more restful place, And we talked it out as we stood about and not one of us could deny
That loving the sea and the skies as he, 'twas a glorious death to die.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much." — Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

Today's Talks

YESTERDAY'S WORK

There is no yesterday today! And there can be no deception in the attempt to finish yesterday's business today.

Everything which you do today which belongs to yesterday is a cheat on today.

We do the things of which we are honestly capable then the night comes and we happily rest.

Tomorrow should be all new, like the day itself with its new light.

There is nothing inspiring about trying to do yesterday's work today. Nothing to dip down into and stir the imagination with, nothing to color ambition with.

Yesterday's work stands out neat and complete, crumpled or soiled. Finished, there it is.

Yet I cannot imagine anyone being satisfied or even remotely content with anything done, no matter how well. The most perfect looking structure shields a multitude of flaws. But life is not a search nor an attempt at perfection—but betterment.

Sweep out, then you are ready for work.

He who litters today with yesterday's remnant, and takes to himself the united ends of hours that have fled, likens himself to the horse who takes another turn at the start of a race before he is off. They list him as an "also ran."

What a feeling it is to awake in the morning with a clean, fresh program unsoiled by yesterday's failures or hangovers!

Life's fine art is to complete an even chain of yesterdays to each day with no weak links—a wonderful thing of pride, strength and beauty. Yesterday's work pictures us as we are; today's work the promise of what we hope to be.

REFUSE BURNS

A small dump fire on Heoven and Allison Company property on Stelton Road at 7:30 o'clock Monday night was extinguished by firemen without damage.

Fire Chief T. B. Claire believes that either spontaneous combustion or careless use of matches caused the blaze to spread in the cotton waste and refuse from the mill, creating smoke which annoyed the neighborhood. About 800 feet of hose was laid by firemen.

PREHISTORIC MAN IS SUBJECT OF DELPHIAN SOCIETY AT MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Xenia Delphian Chapter was held Monday evening in the Parish House, the president, Mrs. C. O. Nybladh presiding.

The round table discussion on "Prehistoric Man's Contribution to Civilization" was conducted by the president. The primitive home was graphically described through the different prehistoric periods and it was shown to be the greatest single contribution to that period—the establishment of the home being the result of this.

The "Use of Metals" was shown as a steady rise in the Bronze age of prehistory by Miss Louise Baldwin.

Mrs. E. E. Anderson gave a talk on the "Evolution of Food Plants," in which she told how primitive man determined what his food should be and how civilization has improved upon these first known foods.

"Art and Dress in Prehistoric Times" was most interestingly described by Mrs. Delver Belden, showing that in many instances these were handed down with very little change.

Mrs. C. O. Nybladh showed that the prehistoric custom of picture writing was man's only method of relating the happenings of the day or of any unusual occurrence.

In the subject of "The Religion of Prehistoric Man," Miss Louise Reynolds brought out that the records of the most remote peoples prove that they stood in awe of an unseen power and how the chief objects of worship were one's ancestors and the forces of nature.

After a general discussion of the program in which Miss Jean Elwell, Mrs. A. S. Frazer and Miss Mina St. John took active part the teacher gave a summary, showing the relative value of primitive man's six contributions to civilization, without which civilization would have been impossible. The chairman of advisory committee then gave the topics for the next meeting, which will be held April 20, in the Parish House at 7:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Caroline Flickinger, one of the national organizers of the Delphian Society, who attended the meeting, was introduced and in her instructive talk, called attention to the fact that in this country in 1922 seven billions of dollars have been spent for luxuries while only two billions were spent for education.

In 1918, Ohio stood twelfth in education in this country, while in 1922 statistics showed that it jumped to fourth place. The state now stands in third place.

Through the cultural and educational plan of the Delphian movement, along with the educational system are long Ohio will rank first, Mrs. Flickinger said. There are more than 100 Delphian chapters in Ohio today and many more being organized, she said.

In speaking further, Mrs. Flickinger said "greater and greater is the demand upon womanhood these days and we surely realize the need of unity of thought, action and influence."

"The Delphian organization will help meet these requirements more than anything else," she said also "what has happened in early history always throws light on the present day—we are heirs of countless ages. This inheritance consists of ideas, institutions, knowledge and civilization. Each generation add its contribution of either good or evil to this inheritance."

The cultural programs of Delphian also makes each person familiar with names and historical events and one is constantly referred to books, magazines and newspapers.

"The national Delphian Society promoted individual, community state and national interest in all that is educational and cultural."

Mrs. Flickinger has arranged with the National Society to leave the charter open of the Xenia chapter for a short time so that it will give interested persons time to communicate with officers of the chapter in order to come in as charter members.

MODSH MITZIE—Mitzi Goes Window Shopping

By JAY V. JAY

It's a lovely spring day and the shops are full of finery for Easter. Mitzi can think of no better occupation than window-shopping and for that purpose has put on a simple frock of kasha, a simple hat with a new rounded crown, a simple ornament on her shoulder and sallies simply forth.

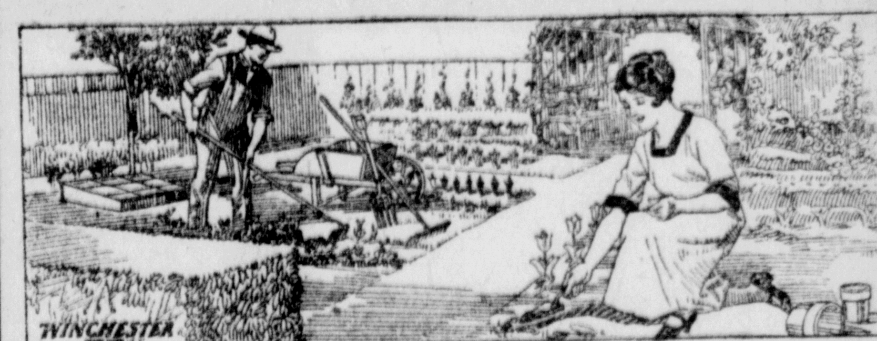

It looks as though flat purses were going to be fashionable forever and forever. New varieties appear almost daily. This latest Parisian fancy has a pocket, as you see, for cigarettes and matches. All kinds of new leathers are seen this spring—especially lizard, calf and mocha.

The silk shawl is still the smartest of evening wraps and the newest preference is for plain ones. They are shown in all bright colors as well as in black and white, are fringed with wide fringe, and are lined with crepe. There's much to be said for their adaptability and gracefulness.

New little hats have narrow brims and are trimmed in the fashion you see—that is, with applique or inset stripes of the same material, but of different colors. These trim little hats are of silk and of felt and Mitzi feels that her window-shopping tour is about to end abruptly.

THE GUMPS—WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIET SALUTE YOU

HERE I'M DOING JUST WHAT THIS BOOK TELLS YOU NOT TO DO—SITTING AROUND IN A STUFFY ROOM FILLED WITH SMOKE—AND EAT—I EAT THREE TIMES AS MUCH AS I NEED THREE TIMES A DAY NOT COUNTING WHAT I PACK AWAY BETWEEN MEALS—THIS BOOK IS RIGHT—KNIVES AND FORKS ARE MORE DEADLY THAN SWORDS AND BAYONETS—AND BISCUITS HAVE KILLED MORE MEN THAN BULLETS—

EVEN THE ANIMALS HAVE BRAINS ENOUGH TO EAT THE RIGHT KIND OF FOOD—A COW EATS GRASS—A HORSE LIVES ON OATS—A TIGER LIVES ON NOTHING BUT FLESH—A SEAL EATS ONLY FISH—BUT A MAN WHO IS SUPPOSED TO BE LORD OF CREATION EATS ANYTHING FROM GOOSEBERRIES TO WHALES—AND THEN HE WONDER WHY HE DOESN'T KEEP HIS SYLPH-LIKE FIGURE—I'LL BET MAN O'WAR WOULDN'T WIN MANY RACES IF THEY WERE FEEDING HIM ON PORK CHOPS AND HOT ROLLS—

I'LL JUST GO ON A DIET AND GET RID OF THAT SUN-PARLOR—THERE'S NO REASON WHY I SHOULD RUIN A GOOD FIGURE FOR A COUPLE OF POTATOES—ABSTAINING FROM FOOD HELPS THE STOMACH, HEAD AND POCKETBOOK—A LION ONLY EATS ONCE A DAY—A PIG EATS WHENEVER HE CAN GET NEAR THE TROUGH—THAT'S WHY THE LION IS THE KING OF BEASTS—FROM NOW ON I'LL BE A LION—

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

Well, while talking with Mr. Bickett of the Huston-Bickett Co., the old McGuffey readers came in for discussion. We asked Bickett if he remembered this one:

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In making your will dispose of your name,
They way they are stolen is surely a shame.

Confucius is a Chinese cat,
Mangy and sassy, grouchy and fat,
Black Prince Edward is a Berkshire boar—
Gosh, but wouldn't old Edward be sore,
Be sore, be sore, if he knew a boar
Had the name that he wore,
For sure, wouldn't he roar!

Troubadour is a chicken egg
Laid by a hen with a wooden leg;
Hercules is the name of a mop—
Boy, wouldn't old Hercules hop,
If he knew that we stop
To mop up the slop
With a prop with his name on the top!

Beelzebub is a frying pan
Made from the sides of an old tin can;
Richelieu is a kind of soup—
Heaven, the lad would get the croup,
The croup, and droop
And loop the loop, if he knew
He drew but a greasy soup.

Raphael is a mere necktie,
Who was Raphael? Don't ask it!
Cicero is a spotted trout—
Lord! wouldn't old Cicero spout,
Oh, wouldn't he shout
If he ever found out
All about this here trout.

Sir Launcelet is a linen collar,
Cost a quarter of a silver dollar;
Dom Pedro is a garter snake—
Gee, wouldn't old Pedro bake
And ache, if he knew that we take
His name for a snake
And make him a fake.

Take no chances, do it tonight—
Get for your name a copyright.

Captain C. L. Darlington, Xenia, past state commander of the American Legion, was the principal speaker at the patriotic banquet of the Veterans' Republican Club held on Monday night to observe the in the American Legion rooms in Dayton the anniversary of the United States' entrance in the World War.

Captain Darlington called attention to persons of various classes who, he said, are attempting to make America defenseless under the guise of war prevention; to active bolsheviks who, he said, wage a never ending campaign in favor of communism, and to pacifists and so-called intellectuals who are working against the best interests of the country.

The American Legion should spread propaganda of its own to counteract those groups, and America should remain in readiness to repel invasion and defend successfully the national honor," said Captain Darlington.

Captain Darlington pointed out that if a strong, fearless Republican like Theodore Roosevelt had been at the helm, a war in Europe might have been averted entirely.

BISHOP REESE WILL CONDUCT SERVICES

Easter services at Christ-Episcopal Church, this city, will be signalized by the presence of the Right Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, bishop-coadjutor of the diocese of Southern Ohio.

Since Bishop Reese was here in February for confirmation, it is unusual for him to come again so soon, on account of the many churches under his care. His visit at this time is, therefore, a distinct honor to the local parish.

Bishop Reese will take complete charge of the morning service, which will be the choral communion, as well as deliver the sermon.

MOTORISTS REPORT TACKS ON STREET

After receiving a number of complaints from motorists driving on West Main and Market Streets regarding broken glass and tacks that they say litter these streets, officials of the Greene County Auto Club are sounding a warning that any person caught in the act of maliciously causing tire trouble, will be prosecuted by law.

Officials say the glass has the appearance of broken glass bottles, which has been puncturing tires and causing motorists trouble.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER IX

Michael replaced the telephone receiver without having given the number. No, he mustn't call her. He mustn't push himself upon her—or any woman. He must be independent. So his mind ran. Ingleby appeared with a group of questions, and Michael forgot Lilah Pharely. He did not think of her again until he was driving home. Then visions of her pursued him. He arrived at the old mansion to find Alonzo Capper enthroned in the most comfortable chair in the drawing room.

"Just getting up, Lonnie?" he asked jovially.

"No, I've been up three hours. His voice was husky.

"Running around last night, it seems."

"No, poker."

"Well, why aren't you at home in bed, getting some sleep? Lord, but you look like you need it."

A characteristically clownish smile beset Alonzo's features, and he replied, loud enough for Mrs. Warbe, the housekeeper, who was in the hall, to hear:

"I've come to dine with my intended. Mrs. Sally Warbe. I avowed long years ago that I'd only marry the best cook on earth."

They heard the housekeeper cackle.

"This is a bad night for the proposal. Sally is going to give you fried ham and kraut, or some such digestion defying combination."

Sally appeared at the door.

"Don't you believe him, Mr. Alonzo. I was thinking this morning that you might come to dinner this evening, so I fixed you what you like best."

"Not chicken a la king, with plenty of mushrooms?"

The housekeeper nodded.

Alonzo leaped up. "Sally, say you'll marry me. I promise to be a good husband and only beat you twice a week."

Sally made use of the occasion to bespeak some of her characteristic philosophy.

"A wife likes a beating once in a while. A man never beats a woman he doesn't care anything about."

Alonzo's rooco laugh filled the room.

"Sally, you're akin to both George Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Sairy Gamp."

The housekeeper smiled, mystified. She didn't know a Mr. Shaw

nor a Mrs. Gamp. After a moment of hesitation she left, leaving behind her the mumbled explanation: "I'll rush Ella with the dinner. I know both of you boys are hungry."

"I'm famished, Sally. Be sure there are plenty of rolls." Alonzo called after her. Then he turned to Michael, now stretched out pensively in a chair.

"Well, how's the charming, the fascinating, the captivating, the enchanting, the enrapturing, the angelically beautiful; in short, the one and only Helen of Chicago?"

Michael lifted his eyes up dully, and shrugged.

"How now?" Alonzo exclaimed. "Have you been given the gate so soon?" He duplicated Michael's shrug. "It's what you get for falling down at her feet so soon. Either grab 'em up and carry them off, or be totally indifferent for a couple of months."

Michael affected a yawn, and responded with a glance that might be interpreted as "What the devil do you know about it? You mal' me tired."

Sally appeared to announce dinner.

"You'll have to wait a minute, Sally, until I brush up," Michael called out, disappearing up the stairs, three steps at a time. The housekeeper's eyes followed him reproachfully. Why do men fret and fume until their meals are ready, and then delay them with last minute preparations?

Over the dinner-table Michael became more communicative.

"Sunny how a year can change a woman," he said sourly. "You wouldn't recognize Helen Blanton now. The bloom of youth has been lost in fat and awkwardness. And she still affects that idiotic baby-talk. She got on my nerves Sunday. But, say! do you know a girl named Lilah Pharely?" His eyes lighted up.

Alonzo answered as he buttered his sixth roll. "Father's an undertaker, isn't he?"

"Yes, I think so."

"Nice girl," Alonzo ventured. "Lonnie, I want to meet her. I mean know her. Can you fix up a party and bring her yourself? We could go to a theater, then to a dance."

Lonnie paused, and inspected his friend's revealing features.

"Um-huh."

WORLD'S GREATEST WARSHIP LAUNCHED

CONFESSES SLAYING MAN FOR LOVE OF VICTIM'S WIFE

Creeps Past Sleeping Children To Commit His Crime

Rochester, N. Y., April 7.—Breaking down after a long grilling Joseph Friia, 31, of Pittston, Pa., early today confessed killing James Lemardy, Sunday morning in his bed for the love of Lemardy's attractive wife, Margaret. Friia's confession came after Mrs. Lemardy, at first suspected of complicity in the slaying with another alleged lover, Joseph Provenzano, 22, told police of Friia's threats to kill her husband unless she eloped with him.

She declared Friia was the man who opened a window in her Hollister Street home, crept past three sleeping children and fired five shots into Lemardy's body as he slept beside her in bed. He threatened to kill her if she told, she declared.

It was in Pittston that he first met Mrs. Lemardy, four years ago, Friia told police. The young wife then 26 years old, returning his love according to his story.

Lemardy was forced to leave Pittston and moved to Utica, N. Y., coming to Rochester a short time later. Friia followed them here a year ago, failed to persuade Mrs. Lemardy to leave her husband and returned to Pittston, according to his confession.

Friia again returned here and last Saturday made a final attempt to persuade the young wife to leave with him. Provenzano, youthful lover of Mrs. Lemardy, overheard the conversation, he said, and Friia's threats to kill the husband.

About one o'clock Sunday morning, after Lemardy and his wife had gone to bed, the slayer removed a window sash of the home, stealthily crept to the bedside and emptied his revolver into the husband, throwing the weapon in a door yard, in his flight.

Mrs. Lemardy, in an effort to shield her lover, at first declared she did not hear the shots fired and was only awakened by fire in the bedding caused by the flash of the gun.

GIRL BEATEN AND ROBBED BY MEN WHO OFFERED HER RIDE

Akron Girl May Die After Attack—Found Here Thrown From Auto

Akron, April 7.—Miss Harriett Marks, 25, living on R. F. D. No. 1, East Akron, was beaten, robbed and thrown from an automobile last night by two strangers from whom she accepted an invitation to ride.

She is in city hospital and may die. She was found lying in a ditch by a motorist about 2 o'clock this morning, in a partially nude state.

According to her incoherent story, she was walking home from work on the Springfield-Mogadore road when she was accosted by the two motorists. She stepped into the machine which drove rapidly away. She remembers that one of the men grabbed her purse and when she struggled, the other hit her on the head with a bottle. She cannot recall what took place afterwards and does not know when she was thrown from the car.

Police have few clues, as the girl is unable to describe her assailants or the auto save that it was a coupe.

FLAMES CAUSE SERIOUS LOSS

Stuebenville, O., April 7.—Flames breaking out mysteriously in the Stanton Motor Company's huge garage here early today completely destroyed the structure and eighty-five automobiles, entailing a loss of $200,000. Incendiarism is suspected.

It was from this garage that Gerald Chapman stole the Lincoln car which played a prominent part in his trial for murder at Hartford last week.

Owners of the garage testified against Chapman.

Authorities are attempting to link up the fire with Chapman's conviction and are inclined to blame an accomplice of the convicted bandit and murderer.

The fire damaged many surrounding dwellings and made a spectacular night blaze.

AIR RACE FOR NORTH POLE PROPOSED BY ARCTIC EXPLORERS

Plan To Stage Air Drive To Top Of World In May—One To Use Balloon

London, April 7.—An air race for the north pole was in the making today between Captain Raoul Amundsen and Grettir Algarsson.

It will be run in May if both explorers continue their present plans. Algarsson will leave Liverpool May first aboard the ship Iceland and hopes to reach the edge of the polar ice within two weeks. There he will inflate the special airship that he will carry and with three companions hopes to make the flight to the pole in 12 hours. His plan at the pole is to descend from the airship by rope ladders and after making observations to continue his flight to Nome, Alaska.

Amundsen's expedition is enroute to Spitzbergen hoping to take off in two airplanes before the end of May. Algarsson has speeded up his preparations hoping to reach the pole before Amundsen.

RUSSELL AND HIS ASSISTANT PLEAD

Cleveland, April 7.—Joshua Russell, former director of prohibition enforcement in this state and his erstwhile assistant, Merle Copeland, and Warren E. Barnett, Columbus and Washington attorney, were arraigned in federal court before Federal Judge Paul Jones this morning on indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with the Hayner distillery, "liquor leakage" case, and plead not guilty.

They were placed under $5,000 bond each.

Counsel for Barnett, Copeland and Russell, argued for a $2,500 bond. Judge Jones, however, cited his reason for the $5,000 bond as being that others indicted previously in the same case were placed under bond of that amount.

Date for trial was not set.

WEEKS IMPROVES

Washington, April 7.—Secretary of War Weeks, who suffered a slight stroke, is showing "continued improvement," his physicians announced today.

Juror Makes Escape Near Trial's End - Start Over

Tazewell, Tenn., April 7.—An unprecedented situation in court annals of Tennessee was caused here early today when a juror in the case of

Bailey Manning, on trial charged with the murder of Dr. E. J. McDaniel, prominent dentist of this community, made a break for liberty, almost at the end of the case which has held the stage for two weeks.

Ellis Amos, juror number 12, complained of illness at 3 o'clock in the morning. He asked permission to walk in the open air. This was granted and accompanied by a guard, the latter in bare feet, the juror left the eleven remaining members sleeping. Once outside, Amos dashed to the winds.

Deputy Kelly was outdistanced on the rough ground and Amos escaped. One hundred names were before the court today from which it is hoped to draw another juror. The case must begin all over again.

The court started an official investigation into the affair.

TEN GIVEN FINES ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Nine other men, Charles and Louis Radke, Edward Herzog, Harry Shultz and George Peterson, of Dayton, and O. W. Hook, William, George and John Munger, all of Bellbrook, entered a plea of guilty to separate charges of plain drunk and were each fined $25 and costs by Judge Wright.

Vessel Converted From Battle Cruiser Finest Ever Built

Camden, N. J., April 7.—A new queen of the seas took the water today when the United States airplane carrier Saratoga slid down the ways of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, giving the United States the largest and fastest craft of the kind in the world.

Amid a din of whistles and in the presence of many high government officials, Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, pulled a silken string, releasing a flock of pigeons and officially christening the new naval giant, "Saratoga."

The new vessel is expected to be completed and commissioned toward the end of 1926, and when she takes her place with the fleet, she will carry an equipment of seventy-two combat, observation and bombing planes. Half of these planes will be of heavy duty type. They will be operated from the flying deck of the ship, which will afford them ample space in which to take the air and upon which to alight at the completion of flights.

As designed, the Saratoga is 888 feet over all, with a maximum beam of 105 feet, and she has a flying deck reaching from stem to stern. Her displacement is 35,000 tons, and she is equipped with engines of 180,000 horsepower, which will give her a speed of between thirty-three and thirty-four knots. Her main battery will consist of eight 8-inch guns, in four turrets, the limit of size for ships of her type, under the Washington Treaty.

The Saratoga was authorized by Congress in 1916, under the three-year building program. Originally the vessel was one of the six battle cruisers included in that program. The contract was let just before the entrance of the United States into the World War, and work was delayed in order to facilitate the building of a smaller type of vessels. After the war the vessel, as a battle cruiser, was redesigned to give it the benefit of the experience of the war, and the keel was not laid until September 25, 1920.

At the time of the Limitation of Arms Conference the vessel was about one-third completed, and while four of the six battle cruisers were ordered scrapped by the terms of the Washington Treaty, the Saratoga and her sister ship, the Lexington, were retained and permission was granted to the United States to convert them into airplane carriers. The Lexington will be launched this Fall at Quincy, Mass.

SALESMAN ROBBED

FLEET GATHERS FOR START OF CRUISE

San Francisco, April 7.—The greatest fleet that ever sailed the Pacific Ocean lay at anchor in San Francisco harbor today.

One hundred and thirty ships, making up the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets, poured through historic Golden Gate yesterday, carrying 40,000 men who today engaged in a gigantic naval parade as the first ceremony of their ten day visit here prior to their departure for a six months cruise in Hawaiian and Australian waters.

The fleet assembled here is the strongest ever gathered under an American flag, according to Admiral Robert E. Coontz, who is in command of the ships and submarines which in line at the usual interval, would stretch out for a distance of more than twenty-five miles.

Speaking of the trip to far Pacific waters, the admiral declared the cruise should prove highly beneficial to the personnel of the navy.

Eleven battleships, twenty six destroyers, five light cruisers, one armored cruiser, two mine layers and ten auxiliary ships, will make the Australian cruise, Admiral Coontz announced.

LEAGUE OPENS

San Francisco, April 7.—With fair skies promised over the circuit, the 1925 season of the Pacific Coast baseball league, was scheduled to open today.

PLAN HEALTH DEMONSTRATION

HOOVER WILL DIRECT MAY DAY PROGRAM IN BEHALF OF CHILDREN

Coolidge Sanctions Movement To Emphasize Health Problems And Their Solution

Washington, April 7.—Sanctioned by President Coolidge and directed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, one of the greatest health demonstrations in American history will take place May 1.

May Day will be set aside by the president in behalf of the health of the 34,000,000 normal children of the United States, Secretary Hoover, speaking as president of the American Child Health association, announced today.

"President Coolidge is calling upon the nation to bring public attention on a national scale to its child health problems and the methods of their solution," Hoover said.

The objectives are these: That there shall be no child in America that has not been born under the proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings; that ever suffers from under nutrition; that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection; that does not receive instruction in elements of hygiene and good health.

One million children of this country were born deficient and thirty five per cent of the normal born were deficient when they became of age, according to a survey just completed by the child health association.

While we have every sympathy for the deficient children, if the nation is to march forward, it will do so not on the feet of its deficient children, but of the normal.

America's annual doctor bill is approximately $1,400,000,000, according to Hoover. For health work only $60,000,000 is spent each year through federal, state and municipal agencies. In other words 25 times as much is spent for cures as for prevention.

A greater sum is spent annually for chewing gum than for safeguarding the health of children.

Backed by an annual budget of $550,000, the child health association has conducted a survey in eighty six cities between twenty thousand and seventy thousand population. The results demonstrate why we had such a deficiency in health standards of the men when they were called to national service for the world war, according to Hoover.

Forty one cities had no provision for hospital care of tuberculosis. Twenty nine percent of the children had not been vaccinated. Forty cities had done nothing to establish control of diphtheria. Forty two cities have no test or pre-natal clinics for the mother. Many cities had no health instruction.

He was taken to Wandsworth prison, where the death sentence will be carried out within two weeks.

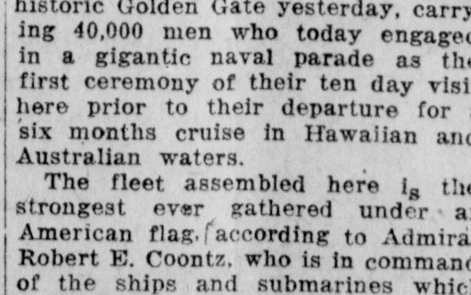

Thorne was convicted of hanging his sweetheart in his little, farm bungalow, dismembering her body and burying the parts on the farm.

During the trial he said the girl had come to him at the bungalow and pleaded with him to marry her as she was expecting a baby.

He temporized and left her there while he went to meet another girl of whom he had become enamored, he said.

The body was hanging from the rafters, when he returned, Thorne said. He admitted that fear impelled him to cut it up and hide it.

WOMAN WINS

Spring Makes Divorce Nil

Cleveland, O., April 7.—A couple appeared in court before Judge Samuel H. Silbert, the husband asking a divorce decree. That was on Saturday. Monday both were back in court. "We'd like to have the decree set aside," the husband explained. The wife joined him in the request. "I gave you a divorce Saturday," Judge Silbert said. "Both of you were satisfied."

"We've changed our minds," they chimed in answer. "We were too hasty."

"It's spring," Judge Silbert ruled. "Your request is granted," and he entered an order, setting aside the decree.

W. W. CULP RECEIVED WITH OPEN ARMS BY WIFE ON RETURN FROM THIRD ELOPEMENT; NOT TO BE PROSECUTED

Amorous Father of Ten and Sister-In-Law Penitent on Return From Romantic Digression—Wife Withdraws Complaint

W. W. Culp, un-frocked minister, is back at his home in South Bend, Ind., after his third adventure into romantic pathways with a younger and more attractive paramour than the wife who has mothered his ten children.

With protestations of good behavior on his lips, the penitent Lothario has returned to his wife and children in South Bend, while the companion of his latest amorous excursion, Mrs. Dorothy Culp, 22, of Nappanee, Ind., wife of his brother Clio, has returned to the husband and two children she deserted.

Both erring wanderers were received with open arms and forgiveness by the deserted. Culp was set at work paring potatoes for the evening meal while his wife sought authorities to withdraw charges and insure him immunity from prosecution. In his leisure moments he worked crossword puzzles and let his wife talk to reporters.

"There is nothing more to it," he said. "We have fixed everything up and I am home to stay. There will be no prosecution; wife has refused to sign any warrants. Of course, I was really not gone long enough to make a case of non-support. I prefer to have nothing more said. If a wife forgives, the public ought to."

Culp took this third elopement in less than three years calmly. His first adventure was staged while he was pastor of the M. E. Church at Spring Valley when he left with his eighteen-year-old choir singer, who lived in the Culp home, and went to Chicago in a mortgaged automobile.

From there they went to Fort Huron, Mich., where they were recognized and arrested.

Returned here, Culp was sentenced to the Dayton Work House but escaped serving time when he was habeas corpus proceedings, based on a technical error in the printed commitment papers. A few weeks ago his brother Clio and his wife visited the Culps at South Bend and three weeks later Culp and his sister-in-law disappeared.

Two weeks later they returned penitent. They were home a week when they again left, this time taking their clothes with them. They admitted spending the first interlude together in Chicago and there they went on the second elopement.

Culp's first digression from the path of marital righteousness in 1922 was the occasion of wide newspaper comment. Caught at Pashmoo Park, Port Huron, the erring minister gave out many interviews bearing upon his peculiar philosophy of love. In these he indicated his wife as an ignorant and erring spouse, who offered him no companionship.

Back here in court however, he loudly protested his promises of future good behavior. "No man should be eternally damned because he seeks love when he has not possessed it. Life is but a trip through a great wilderness and somewhere in the wilderness is a rose for every man. That is the rose of love; its possession means happiness and success. If a man pluck a thistle by mistake, should he be prevented from plucking a rose, should he later chance upon it?" he said.

At the conclusion of his statement to the court on the occasion of his hearing here, Culp said, "Will this world forgive and let me try again or must I be cuffed some more? I am at your mercy for justice."

NORMAN THORNE WILL HANG FOR THE MURDER OF HIS SWEETHEART

Appeal Of Young Farmer From Death Sentence Dismissed By London Court

London, April 7.—Norman Thorne, young farmer of Cloughboro, must hang for the murder of his sweetheart, Elsie Cameron, a London stenographer. His appeal from the death sentence was dismissed today by the criminal court of appeals.

The stoic calm he maintained through the trial deserted Thorne when the higher court removed this chance of escaping the gallows. He collapsed after he was taken from the courtroom and went.

"It isn't fair, it isn't fair," he moaned between sobs.

He was taken to Wandsworth prison, where the death sentence will be carried out within two weeks.

Thorne was convicted of hanging his sweetheart in his little, farm bungalow, dismembering her body and burying the parts on the farm.

During the trial he said the girl had come to him at the bungalow and pleaded with him to marry her as she was expecting a baby.

He temporized and left her there while he went to meet another girl of whom he had become enamored, he said.

The body was hanging from the rafters, when he returned, Thorne said. He admitted that fear impelled him to cut it up and hide it.

STATE IS DEFENDING ELLINGSON GIRL IN SANITY PROBE CASE

Girl Herself Pulls For State In Queer Situation Fate Has Brought About

San Francisco, April 7.—The state expected to close its defense of Dorothy Elingson, 17 year old matricide this evening. In its efforts to prove the young defendant sane, the state today assumed the role of her champion before the jury of ten men and two women who will decide her fate.

Contrasting the picture drawn by the defense, a girl emotionally dead, shy of comprehension and ability to profit by experience and thoroughly insane the state presented another side of the personality of the "jazz baby."

Through Policewoman Kathryn Sullivan, who was her constant companion for two weeks, and who declared she was the best friend the girl had in the world, outside her father and brother, the state pictured Dorothy as a girl to whom "truth stood above all things," as a tender hearted girl who shared her candy and fruit with an unfortunate jail mate suffering from a broken shoulder a connoisseur of literature and a person thoroughly sane and regretful of her crime.

By the same twist of fate, Dorothy sat in her "sideline" seat at the counsel table, pulling for the success of the state.

Smile, of encouragement were given Mrs. Sullivan by Dorothy as she testified and tears came to her eyes when Mrs. Sullivan on cross examination took the opportunity to enter a spirited defense of the girl in what she termed a "misstatement of facts regarding the girl's love affairs by defense alienists."

"I guess it's because my fighting spirit is up," Dorothy said today, in explaining that she has been able to sit through three days of her insatiable trial without collapse.

An Easter Program will be given at the church here during the Sunday School hour, (9:30 Sunday) by the pupils of the above mentioned Bible study classes in charge of their teacher Mrs. Behrend. All are invited.

He said in substance that our ministers would have to take off their hats to Mrs. Behrend's teaching, and that those boys and girls answered questions which they understood and which would puzzle many of our deacons.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the bowels of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

Mrs. James Baxter and son have returned to their home in Urbana, after a week's visit with relatives in this city. They were accompanied home by Mr. Baxter who spent the week end in Xenia.

JOHN BRYAN'S WIDOW WINS EFFORT TO GET ENTIRE RESIDUE OF ESTATE IN DECISION

Mrs. Fredericka Steube, 39, wife of John W. Steube, Cincinnati, and widow of John Bryan, "The Poet of Yellow Springs", eccentric millionaire, is awarded more than $500,000 from the Bryan estate under the construction of the will determined in a decision handed down by the United States Court of Appeals in Cincinnati Monday.

The decision affirms the judgment rendered by Common Pleas Judge Thomas H. Darby last December and gives to Mrs. Steube all of the estate held in trust for her at once, as well as a residue amounting to more than $400,000 which Bryan devised to go to a trust fund to be devoted to "bettering the condition of mankind."

Under the will, Bryan left his widow $100,000 in trust, to be paid her at the rate of $5,000 a year until she reached the age of 40, when she was to receive the entire amount. He then, in addition to other bequests, including the giving of his 500 acre Riverside Farm at Yellow Springs to the state specified that the residue was to be used to finance the printing of tracts containing his peculiar religious beliefs and "bettering mankind," with the trust officer of the Union Savings Bank and Trust Company as trustee.

Four years after the will was filed the trust company as executor, filed suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court for construction of the

TESTIMONY STARTS IN $50,000 TRIAL; TWO WOMEN ON JURY

Testimony in the trial of the $50,000 suit for damages of Mildred Dickerson, former stenographer at Wilbur Wright Field against The Village of Osborn and the Miami Conservancy District, which began in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, is being heard before a jury of ten men and two women.

The jury was picked after some delay and but three witnesses had testified when a recess was called at noon. About twenty-five witnesses are for the plaintiff and defense have been called, with the number evenly distributed between both sides.

In her suit for damages the plaintiff alleged that she has been made an invalid from injuries sustained when she accidentally stepped into a hole in the sidewalk in Osborn and fell against a protruding lead pipe.

Attracted by a window display in the H. R. Kendig store, the plaintiff claimed she failed to notice the wide hole in the walk because of darkness. Attorneys W. L. Miller, J. A. Finney, and Fred B. Johnson, of Indianapolis, represent the plaintiff while Morris D. Rice, is attorney for Osborn and Brown and Frank for the conservancy district.

The jury picked from a venire of thirty serving for the January term of the petit jury follows: Mr. Bowers, L. M. Linton, Clyde Clark, S. Gerhardt, Charles H. Wright, Nolle Ankeney, Chester Preston, Samuel Singer, L. D. Chitty, Guy Coy, Winifred Sugden and Joseph Bolinger.

XENIA CONTRACTORS AWARDED CONTRACT FOR PYTHIAN HOME

McCurran Brothers, Xenia contractors, were awarded the contract for improvements and additions to the dwelling on the farm owned by the Grand Lodge of Ohio, Colored Knights of Pythias, on the Jamestown Pike, which will be converted into a home for aged and infirm members of that order and its auxiliary organization, the Court of Calanthe.

The announcement of the awarding of the contract was made Monday. A number of bids were entered by contractors for the work but all were too high; the amounts being more than the amount the lodge had planned to spend on the home. The plans were revised and two bids entered left, one being the McCurran Brothers bid, which finally won the contract.

About 30,000 will be spent by the lodge on the improvements of the building on the farm, which was purchased by the lodge from Ralph Mangum more than a year ago. McCurran Brothers' bid covers all phases of the improvements, which will include altering of the interior of the large brick dwelling, four additions, including a dormitory and rest rooms; a large two-story porch across the entire front, modern plumbing and other details.

McCurran Brothers will start work about May 1 and it is expected the work will be completed about September 1. The home will provide accommodations for about fifty persons.

The farm is situated only a short distance from Xenia and consists of about sixty-five acres of land, which will be cultivated to aid in the support of the institution.

widow having claimed the entire estate as residuary legatee. Judge Darby held in favor of the widow, declaring the disposition of "whatever money I shall have was too vague and uncertain to amount to a gift or trust. The Court of Appeals in upholding the decision, declared the testator had no actual purpose in mind for "bettering mankind."

The identifying of beneficiaries of such a trust fund was even more vague the court held. "Did he mean the people of Greene or Hamilton Counties, the state of Ohio, the United States, North America, the Western Hemisphere or the World? Who can tell?" the court says. It then declares the trust must fail for uncertainty of beneficiaries, if for no other reason. "The will is vague, inconsistent and indefinite and the money or property not disposed of by specific bequest must be held to be part of his estate as to which he died intestate, Fredericka Bryan Steube is his only heir at law, and as such, it is all her property," the court ruled. The decision also gives her the trust fund created for her in a lump sum at once.

In this connection it develops that the widow received $100,000 as a marriage settlement on her agreement to wed Bryan, according to L. F. Clevenger, who was closely associated with the husband for some time. Mr. Clevenger was a witness to the marriage contract of Bryan and his wife, there being no ceremony, either civil or religious.

According to Mr. Clevenger Bryan searched the laws of a number of states before finding one permitting the marriage by contract, and they then entered into the contract there. Mr. Clevenger later witnessed the contract on their return when he served them a sumptuous wedding dinner at Riverside.

The bequest of the farm itself is also hanging fire, due to the efforts of two governors to prevent the state accepting it because of a clause which prevents religious worship on the property. Although the last legislature passed its acceptance over Donahay's veto, the case is now in the hands of the attorney general for investigation.

RETIRING RED CROSS SECRETARY IS GIVEN TOKEN BY OFFICERS

Miss Louise B. Shaffer, former executive secretary of the Greene County Red Cross, gave her final report to the executive board in regular session in the county offices, Monday afternoon. Several members of the board from over the county who have been unable to attend previous meetings were present and every part of the county was represented.

After her report and expression of appreciation of the board and the organization's co-operation, the Rev. Harvey Crowell, Osborn, member of the board, made a short presentation speech, expressing appreciation of Miss Shaffer's work, and presented her with a feather over-night bag as a gift from the board.

Mrs. Sarah Roberson who has taken up her duties as new secretary of the county Red Cross, made a short talk and asked the co-operation of the board members and pledged her full support in their program of work.

URBANA SCHOOLS IN ASSOCIATION

After being suspended for nearly three years, the Urbana public schools were reinstated to membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary High Schools at the annual meeting of the association held at Chicago recently.

The Urbana schools were dropped from the association because heating and ventilating systems in the schools and the teacher-pupil ratio were not up to the standard required by the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mouk and daughter of Osborn, were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mason, of Urbana.

RAILROAD GARDENER WILL PLAN SHAWNEE PARK IMPROVEMENTS

W. F. Hutchison, of Philadelphia, landscape gardener of southwestern region of the Pennsylvania Railroad is expected to arrive in Xenia within ten days to lay out plans for the proposed landscape gardening in the new park of the Xenia Recreation Association in the Dodds Addition. Mr. Hutchison, together with C. A. Kennedy, railroad gardener here, will make a tour of the ten acre tract of land.

Mr. Hutchison recently made an offer to the association to assist in the gardening plans, and together with Mr. Matthews, of Cincinnati, supervisor of the Cincinnati division of the Pennsylvania system, was conducted over the grounds.

Both men were enthusiastic over the possibilities of the site for park purposes.

Work of developing the site is going forward as rapidly as possible and it is planned to stake off the irregular contour of the lagoon some time next week preparatory to excavating and draining the swamp land.

Blueprints have been made of the acreage and the tract platted out in preparation for the coming of the landscape men who will look over the site and make "mental observations" on ideal spots for placing shrubbery.

WILL USE MOVIES TO EDUCATE SAFETY

The "Educational and Safety Week" sponsored by officials of the Greene County Auto Club began Monday.

With school vacations at hand, the traffic and pedestrian situation becomes acute and measures are taken each year to protect the pedestrian and motorist.

To combat the situation, officials of the club have found it necessary to educate both the children and older people in safety, and seven reels of motion pictures have been obtained which will be shown at various theaters over the county.

With the advent of warmer weather and a mutual love for the outdoors, motorists and pedestrians are more frequently seen, while traffic on the streets and highways augmented by the dare-devil "flyers" becomes greater with pedestrians looked upon as fair game.

The pictures obtained depict the various and frequent causes of accidents as well as preventive measures and so warn the public to be always on guard against accidents.

CHARACTER SUBJECT OF ROTARY ADDRESS

Refuting the statement that each individual is the architect of his own fate and fortune, C. W. Cooker, superintendent of the Urbana City Schools, declared that every individual was made subject to his inheritance of physical, mental and moral forces, brought down from ancestors in his address on "Building of Character" before the Xenia Rotary Club, Tuesday noon at the Elks' Lodge.

There are two strong influences in each individual, Superintendent Cooker said, one of heredity and the other that of environment. Both of these forces sway the person, and their balance of power differs with the individual. He brought out many instances of the force of each influence in his talk.

The address was the only feature of the after-luncheon program.

FORMER XENIAN DIES IN DAYTON

Captain J. E. Gimpering, former Xenian, quartermaster of the depot at the National Military Home, Dayton, died at his home in Dayton, Monday, at midnight, according to word received by his cousins, the Misses Eleanor and Sarah Williams, East Church Street.

Captain Gimpering had been ill a week, but the cause of his death was not learned. He was born and reared in Xenia, his mother being before marriage, Miss Eleahor Martin, daughter of the late Dr. Samuel Martin.

He is survived by his widow and two sons. The body will probably be brought to Xenia for burial.

A brother, Major Thomas N. Gimpering of Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Winters McGregor, of Dayton, also survive.

PLUMBERS TO MEET

Plumbers from Xenia, Dayton and surrounding cities will attend the dinner of The Dayton Master Plumber's Association to be given at the Duro Pump and Manufacturing Company's plant in Dayton next Monday night, J. A. North, this city, has announced his intention of attending the meeting.

John J. Vogelstein, Cincinnati president of the National Plumbers' Association will deliver the principal speech.

QUATRIN AND MASTER CHARLIE FAVORED IN BETTING ODDS IN WINTER DERBY BOOKS

New York, April 7.—Quatrain, winner of the New Orleans derby and Master Charlie, two year old champion of 1924, have been rated pronounced favorites in the winter books, those pay-or-play mediums through which a hopeful dollar is cast upon the rather hopeless chance that the horse of your choice will win the Kentucky derby.

Sometimes the horse even goes to the post.

Several years ago, Zev, rated as high as fifty to one in the early futures, was unconventional enough to win the race and a lot of the boys are still looking for their money.

But you can't keep a good man on a bed spring down and today plenty of important money is going on the books on Quatrain at eight to one and Master Charlie at ten to one, those guileless bookies having learned through the Zev incident that big odds today may mean small change tomorrow.

For some reason, the odds quoted represent a lengthening of the figures for Quatrain. He is the same horse that ran so well on southern tracks, yet the layers have raised the price from around "sixes" at the same time, Master Charlie's odds have been shortened in a rather sensational manner. He was high as 25 to 1 at the first call-over, because a split in one of his legs. Within the last fortnight heavy commissions have been sent in from his stable indicating that the rumors will be rumors.

Another in popular demand during the recent days, is Stimulus of the Marshal Field stable. He has been hammered down to 12 to 1 since last week and stands third among the future choices while fourth position is being held by Our General, which is training at Aiken. This is pretty far off the beaten-track of racing observation yet he is being held as low as 15 to 1.

Candidates from two of the leading stables, to wit: those of E. R. Bradley and Harry Payne Whitney, are not getting much early action. Bradley saddled the horses that ran two in the derby some five years ago and has been in the money pretty much through recent years. But he doesn't seem to have an outstanding candidate at the moment. Hedgefence and Chantey of the Whitney string, are held respectively at 20 to 1 and 40 to 1.

Other quotations include: Young Martin 20 to 1; Supper 25 to 1; Les O. Colner, American Flag, Singletree and Sunny Man, 20 to 1; Mother Goose and Swinging 30 to 1; Swope, Silver Fox, Elf and Coronation 40 to 1 and Chief Uncas 80 to 1.

REVENUE NOT THE INTENT

RECENTLY it was said to me that prohibition was an outrage because of its expense to the country. I have obtained a definite statement from B. F. McDonald, state prohibition commissioner, and would like to pass it on. For the years of 1923 and '24 prohibition enforcement cost Ohio about $197,000, or over $98,000 each year. In the same period there has gone into the state treasury from fines $2,967,558, or nearly a million and a half dollars a year; the receipts therefore being about fifteen times as great as the costs. This is only one half of the amounts collected, the other half going to the municipalities.

"Yes, prohibition is expensive—to the person who drinks. This is one tax that does not fall like the rain, on the just and on the unjust. The bootlegger doesn't really pay the fines; he takes it out of the customer. It's a big tax to pay, for the chance of being poisoned, don't you think?"

This is the letter received a few days ago from one of our readers. It contains some most illuminating facts. Nevertheless at the time the eighteenth amendment was passed the proposition of passing such a law was not based upon the possible revenue which might be derived from its attempted enforcement. In other words it was not advocated as a revenue producing piece of legislation. Its object was to stop the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. The very purpose and intent of the law would be defeated if we simply consider it from the standpoint of "net profit."

Another thing is the fact that the cost to the state of Ohio of its attempted enforcement is not the only cost to be considered. There is the cost to the government for federal enforcement agents, the cost to each and every city, town and village for police dry squads, the cost of prosecution in county, municipal and federal courts as well as the greater cost attendant upon the maintenance of workhouse and penal and insane institutions. Then there is another big item in connection with dry enforcement which is probably more costly to the bootlegger and the customer than are the fines, and that is the enormous graft which is being derived from the alleged liquor traffic by police officers, constables and so-called "dry enforcement" officers in almost every city and county in the state—a revenue which does not reach the coffers of either state or municipality.

Most apropos is the criticism made by Federal Judge John Killits, of the northern Ohio district, in congratulating a jury upon the fact that it had found a former Lindale, Ohio marshal and his aide guilty of extortion and impersonating federal officers. He said—"Ohio, one of the greatest states in the union, is the only state which has permitted commercialization of liquor law enforcement to such an extent that men, like these two defendants can go into homes and places of business and practice extortion. It is a disgrace to our state that members of the legislature have taken no action at this sitting to remedy existing conditions." And Judge Killits is recognized as one of the strongest judges on the Federal bench against the liquor traffic.

Only recently several of the most prominent dry enforcement officers of the state were indicted for illegal liquor withdrawals and even more recently there have been wholesale indictments of lesser lights in Hamilton county. Hardly a big county in the state has been clean from similar alleged irregularities.

We don't want revenue from the prohibition law. What we want is honest and conscientious respect for law and honest, conscientious enforcement against those who require force.

FRACTIONAL STAMPS

SOMETHING new in stamps is soon to be issued by the Postoffice department. Half-cent and one-and-a-half-cent denominations have been made necessary because of the new rates on third-class mail. It will be impossible to purchase less than two at a time because there are no coins of corresponding denominations. Or, perhaps, the purchaser may toss out a cent or two cents and tell the government to "keep the change." It might have been more convenient had the rates been put up a whole cent if it was necessary to increase the rates at all. It is safe to say that most people would complain less of this than of the fractional stamps.

THE DEATH OF THEODORE WRIGHT

I sing of the death of Theodore Wright, who had lived his three-score ten,
'Tis a happy song that I pass along,
With a hope for all fishermen;
For Theodore Wright found life's delight
In a boat on the open sea.
And his summons came as he played
The game out there where he loved to be.
This gentle soul when the waves
Would roll thanked God for the ocean blue,
For the summer sky and the gulls
That fly for he loved them though
And his days were spent with a calm
Content where the salt breeze
Poured his wine.
So we thought it fair he should die
Out there with a sea fish on his line.

In the thick of the fight his summons came,
Out there where he longed to be;

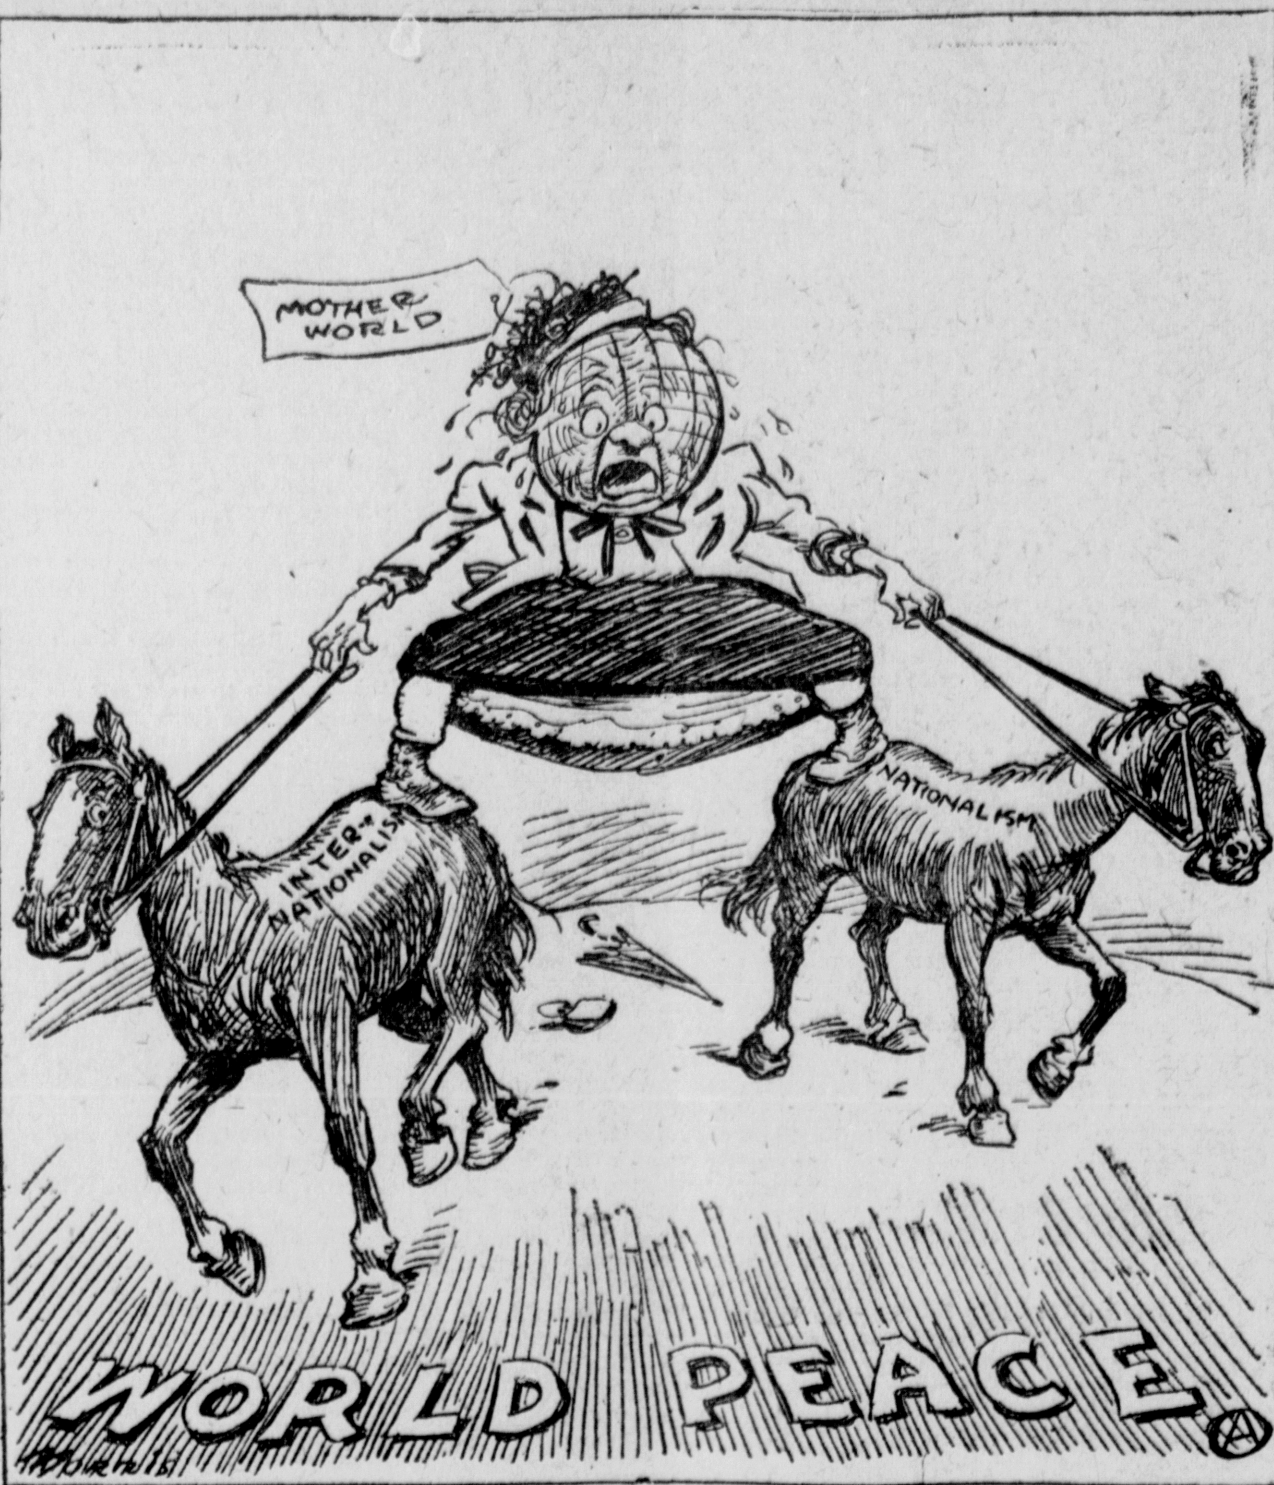

"I'll give you slack, Mr. Amberjack,
But you're coming home with me!
You may shake your head, but you're mine!" he said, "and you'll soon be in the boat!"
Then he heard the call, and they saw him fall with the death sound in his throat.
They brought him in from the summer sea, with a sweet calm on his face.

A glad old man, who had joined his clan in a much more restful place,
And we talked it out as we stood about and not one of us could deny
That loving the sea and the skies as he, 'twas a glorious death to die.

A Reader: "I would appreciate seeing a recipe for Marshmallow Icing for layer cakes in the column."

Answer: Follow any icing for "Boiled Frosting" but add five quartered marshmallow candies before beating the mixture. Here is a recipe recently sent in by a Reader Friend, which you may like to try:
"Original Marshmallow Cake Icing and Filling: (Mrs. F.) Beat together for several minutes two cups of confectioners' sugar, one tablespoon of strawberry jam and one cup of that canned marshmallow called 'mist' Spread. This has a pink color which is very pretty."

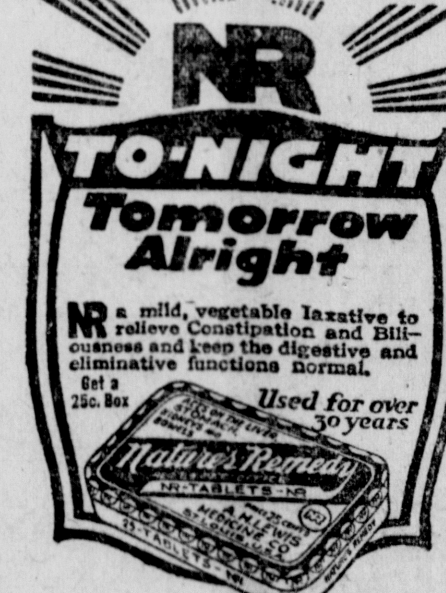

Mrs. M.: "My baby broke the mirror in my ivory hand glass. Where can I have a new one put in?"

Answer: Write to the company that made the mirror and ask this question. If you do not know the company's name, try to find it out from the store where you bought the mirror. If I were in your place, however, I should not try to have a regular bevelled glass put in it; I should take it to any picture-framing store (or a hardware store where they have a glass cutter) and have a good portion cut from some old . . .

Answer: Puff paste was formerly made with eggs, but few modern cookbooks contain this recipe. Patty shells, however, frequently are made with eggs. I regret that I cannot tell you the exact amount of flour to use in the following recipe (I do not like to publish recipes which cannot give this precise information, or recipes which call for baking but omit to say for how long and in how hot an oven! I wish my Reader Friends would always mention these things in contributing a recipe. Young and inexperienced housekeepers need very explicit information.)

Patty Shells Made with Eggs: Mix together one quart of sweet milk, one egg, one teaspoon of olive oil, one-half teaspoon of sugar, a pinch of salt and flour enough to make a stiff dough. Dip your ungreased iron shell in the batter and drain a little

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Everyone who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much."—Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

Today's Talks

YESTERDAY'S WORK

There is no yesterday today! And there can be no deception in the attempt to finish yesterday's business today.

Everything which you do today which belongs to yesterday is a cheat on today.

We do the things of which we are honestly capable then the night comes and we happily rest.

Tomorrow should be all new, like the day itself with its new light.

There is nothing inspiring about trying to do yesterday's work today. Nothing to dip down into and stir the imagination with, nothing to color ambition with.

Yesterday's work stands out neat and complete, crumpled or soiled. Finished, there it is.

Yet I cannot imagine anyone being satisfied or even remotely content with anything done, no matter how well. The most perfect looking structure shields a multitude of flaws. But life is not a search nor an attempt at perfection—but betterment.

Sweep out, then you are ready for work.

He who litters today with yesterday's remnant, and takes to himself the united ends of hours that have fled, likens himself to the horse who takes another turn at the start of a race before he is off. They list him as an "also ran."

What a feeling it is to awake in the morning with a clean, fresh program unsold by yesterday's failures or hangovers!

Life's fine art is to complete an even chain of yesterdays to each today with no weak links—a wonderful thing of pride, strength and beauty. Yesterday's work pictures us as we are; today's work the promise of what we hope to be.

PREHISTORIC MAN IS SUBJECT OF DELPHIAN SOCIETY AT MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Xenia Delphian Chapter was held Monday evening in the Parish House, the president, Mrs. C. O. Nybladh presiding.

The round table discussion on "Prehistoric Man's Contribution to Civilization" was conducted by the president. The primitive home was graphically described through the different prehistoric periods and fire was shown to be the greatest single contribution to that period—the establishment of the home being the result of it.

"Use of Metals" was shown as a steady rise in the Bronze age of prehistory by Miss Louise Baldwin.

Mrs. F. E. Anderson gave a talk on the "Evolution of Food Plants," in which she told how primitive man determined what his food should be and how civilization has improved upon these first known foods.

"Art and Dress in Prehistoric Times" was most interestingly described by Mrs. Delver Belden, showing that in many instances these were handed down with very little change.

Mrs. C. O. Nybladh showed that the prehistoric custom of picture writing was man's only method of relating the happenings of the day or of any unusual occurrence.

In the subject of "The Religion of Prehistoric Man," Miss Louise Reynolds brought out that the records of the most remote peoples prove that they stood in awe of an unseen power and how the chief objects of worship were one's ancestors and the forces of nature.

After a general discussion of the program in which Miss Jean Elwell, Mrs. A. S. Frazer and Miss Mina St. John took active part the teacher gave a summary, showing the relative value of primitive man's six contributions to civilization, without which civilization would have been impossible. The chairman of advisory committee then gave the topics for the next meeting, which will be held April 20, in the Parish House at 7:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Caroline Flickinger, one of the national organizers of the Delphian Society, who attended the meeting, was introduced and in her instructive talk, called attention to the fact that in this country in 1922 seven billions of dollars have been spent for luxuries while only two billions were spent for education.

In 1918, Ohio stood twelfth in education; this country, while in 1922 statistics showed that it jumped to fourth place. The state now stands in third place.

Through the cultural and educational plan of the Delphian movement, along with the educational system over long Ohio will rank first, Mrs. Flickinger said. There are more than 100 Delphian chapters in Ohio today and many more being organized, she said.

In speaking further, Mrs. Flickinger said "greater and greater is the demand upon womanhood these days and we surely realize the need of unity of thought, action and influence."

"The Delphian organization will help meet these requirements more than anything else." She said also "what has happened in early history always throws light on the present day—we are heirs of countless ages. This inheritance consists of ideas, institutions, knowledge and civilization. Each generation adds its contribution of either good or evil to this inheritance."

"The cultural programs of Delphian also makes each person familiar with names and historical events and one is constantly referred to books, magazines and newspapers."

"The national Delphian Society promoted individual, community state and national interest in all that is educational and cultural."

Mrs. Flickinger has arranged with the National Society to leave the charter open of the Xenia chapter for a short time so that it will give interested persons time to communicate with officers of the chapter in order to come in as charter members.

MODSH MITZIE—Mitzi Goes Window Shopping

By JAY V. JAY

It's a lovely spring day and the shops are full of finery for Easter. Mitzi can think of no better occupation than window-shopping and for that purpose has put on a simple frock of kasha, a simple hat with a new rounded crown, a simple ornament on her shoulder and sallies simply forth.

It looks as though flat purses were going to be fashionable forever and forever. New varieties appear almost daily. This latest Parisian fancy has a pocket, as you see, for cigarettes and matches. All kinds of new leathers are seen this spring—especially lizard, calf and mocha.

The silk shawl is still the smartest of evening wraps and the newest preference is for plain ones. They are shown in all bright colors as well as in black and white, are fringed with wide fringe, and are lined with crepe. There's much to be said for their adaptability and gracefulness.

New little hats have narrow brims and are trimmed in the fashion you see—that is, with applique or inset stripes of the same material, but of different colors. These trim little hats are of silk and of felt and Mitzi feels that her window-shopping tour is about to end abruptly.

VETERANS LISTEN TO DARLINGTON SPEECH AT DAYTON MEETING

Captain C. L. Darlington, Xenia, past state commander of the American Legion, was the principal speaker at the patriotic banquet of the Veterans' Republican Club held on Monday night to observe the in the American Legion rooms in Dayton, anniversary of the United States entrance in the World War.

Captain Darlington called attention to persons of various classes who, he said, are attempting to make America defenseless under the guise of war prevention; to active bolshevists who, he said, wage a never ending campaign in favor of communism, and to pacifists and so-called intellectuals who are working against the best interests of the country.

"The American Legion should spread propaganda of its own to counteract those groups, and America should remain in readiness to repel invasion and defend successfully the national honor," said Captain Darlington.

Captain Darlington pointed out that if a strong, fearless Republican like Theodore Roosevelt had been at the helm, a war in Europe might have been averted entirely.

BISHOP REESE WILL CONDUCT SERVICES

Easter services at Christ-Episcopal Church, this city, will be signalled by the presence of the Right Rev. Theodore Irving Reese, bishop-coadjutor of the diocese of Southern Ohio.

Since Bishop Reese was here in February for confirmation, it is unusual for him to come again so soon, on account of the many churches under his care. His visit at this time is, therefore, a distinct honor to the local parish.

Bishop Reese will take complete charge of the morning service, which will be the choral communion, as well as deliver the sermon.

Officials say the glass has the appearance of broken glass bottles, which has been puncturing tires and causing motorists trouble.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER IX
Michael replaced the telephone receiver without having given the number. No, he mustn't call her. He mustn't push himself upon her—or any woman. He must be indifferent. So his mind ran.

Ingleby appeared with a group of questions, and Michael forgot Lilah Pharely. He did not think of her again until he was driving home. Then visions of her pursued him. He arrived at the old mansion to find Alonzo Capper enthroned in the most comfortable chair in the drawing room.

"Just getting up, Lonnie?" he asked jovially.

"No, I've been up three hours." His voice was husky.

"Running around last night, it seems."

"No, poker."

"Well, why aren't you at home in bed, getting some sleep? Lord, but you look like you need it."

A characteristically clownish smile beset Alonzo's features, and he replied, loud enough for Mrs. Warbe, the housekeeper, who was in the hall, to hear:

"I've come to dine with my intended, Mrs. Sally Warbe. I avowed long years ago that I'd only marry the best cook on earth."

They heard the housekeeper cackle.

"This is a bad night for the proposal. Sally is going to give you fried ham and kraut, or some such digestion defying combination."

Sally appeared at the door.

"Don't you believe him, Mr. Alonzo. I was thinking this morning that you might come to dinner this evening, so I fixed you what you like best."

"Not chicken a la king, with plenty of mushrooms?"

The housekeeper nodded.

Alonzo leaped up. "Sally, say you'll marry me. I promise to be a good husband and only beat you twice a week."

Sally made use of the occasion to bespeak some of her characteristic philosophy.

"A wife likes a beating once in a while. A man never beats a woman he doesn't care anything about."

Alonzo's rooco laugh filled the room.

"Sally, you're akin to both George Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Sairy Gamp."

The housekeeper smiled, mystified. She didn't know a Mr. Shaw.

nor a Mrs. Gamp. After a moment of hesitation she left, leaving behind her the mumbled explanation: "I'll rush Ella with the dinner. I know both of you boys are hungry."

"I'm famished, Sally. Be sure there are plenty of rolls," Alonzo called after her. Then he turned to Michael, now stretched out pensively in a chair.

"Well, how's the charming, the fascinating, the captivating, the angelically beautiful; in short, the one and only Helen of Chicago?"

Michael lifted his eyes up dully, and shrugged.

"How now?" Alonzo exclaimed. "Have you been given the gate so soon?" He duplicated Michael's shrug.

"It's what you get for falling down at her feet so soon. Either grab 'em up and carry them off, or be totally indifferent for a couple of months."

Michael affected a yawn, and responded with a glance that might be interpreted as "What, the devil? do you know about it? You mal' me tired."

Sally appeared to announce dinner.

"You'll have to wait a minute, Sally, until I brush up," Michael called out, disappearing up the stairs, three steps at a time. The housekeeper's eyes followed him reproachfully.

Why do men fret and fume until their menials are ready, and then delay them with last minute preparations?

Over the dinner-table Michael became more communicative.

"Stuffy how a year can change a woman," he said sourly. "You wouldn't recognize Helen Blanton now. The bloom of youth has been lost in fat and awkwardness. And she still affects that idiotic baby-talk. She got on my nerves Sunday. But, say! do you know a girl named Lilah Pharely?" His eyes lighted up.

Alonzo answered as he buttered his sixth roll. "Father's an undertaker, isn't he?"

"Yes, I think so."

"Nice girl," Alonzo ventured. "Lonnie, I want to meet her. I mean know her. Can you fix up a party and bring her yourself? We could go to a theater, then to a dance."

Lonnie paused, and inspected his friend's revealing features.
